in the name of Rukmaniammal his brother's widow as his nearest heir, but this appears to be objectionable for under the Hindu law a brother's widow is not an heir - please see page 348, Trevelyan's Hindu Law. Though the right has sanctioned hereditary, Rukmaniammal has no claim to it.

25. I quite see the point of law & Mr. Aiken has been down in the Mysore State code. Even the book on Hindu Law puts up no preference, a brother's widow has no ~~right~~ inheritance at all. But the settlement was made years ago & I presume that the present holder has enjoyed the grant - say for five years. It would be hard on him now, if the grant ceases suddenly. The D.C. Aiken may therefore be approached, & Aiken being known in the case & the Hindu law, a brother's widow has no right of inheritance.
